

SU Directors Okay June Jazz Festival

AFTER TWO hours of debate with officials of local organization's representatives, the Stroud Union School Board voted 5-1 last night to lease athletic fields to the Varsity S Club for use as the site of a June Jazz Music Festival.

The motion was for athletic fields around the school to be used as a site for the show itself, and for parking facilities; as well as a stipulation that guaranteed the Varsity S 50 per cent of the net profits from the concessions and program fee.

Maxwell Cohen, attorney for the festival corporation of Sidney Bernstein, presented the facts at the opening of the meeting.

Permanent Event

Cohen said that the idea of the promoters was to make the festival the first permanent event of its kind in America. It would rank with the leading music festivals of the world, and possibly develop into a cultural center with seminars and classical festivals.

He noted that perhaps a million dollars could be spent this June in the area if 10,000 persons are drawn to the festival.

The concessions and the program fees are to be turned over to the Varsity S Club — with a possible net of $50,000 — half this amount is guaranteed to the club, the other half might be distributed to charities.

The question before the school board was whether to lease the land for this one festival or not.

Howard Marshall, representative of the Varsity S, asked the board to lease the land for one year.

Cohen then dissented, saying he had not heard of that stipulation before.

He said that his corporation was willing to take an option on the fields around Stroud Union for 10 years, but that they must have an option. A one-year deal was not satisfactory.

He said that too much money would be invested in facilities to allow such a temporary arrangement.

Ray Roberts, Pocono Jaycee official; Bill Altier, president of the Pocono Vacation Bureau, and representatives from the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association and the Chamber of Commerce as well as Marshall, said that they would assure the corporation of equivalent facilities.

They noted that the land asked for from Stroud Union was to be built upon, and would not be available after this year.

Cohen balked at this, but the local groups again assured the New York attorney, who resides in Minisink Hills, of the good faith in the group in providing such facilities.

Cohen said that he had not been informed of the short-term deal, and said there were no assurances that the "equivalent" facilities would be leased at fair prices, or that the facilities would not be exorbitant.

One-Year Lease

After further assurances, and a clarification by Mayor Joseph Small of Stroudsburg, Cohen said that he and the four sponsoring organizations could work out a temporary agreement and lease the Stroud Union land for just this year.

The school board then discussed the question — and the motion from the Varsity S asking for the land was read.

Assurances of a bond to cover indemnity of personal and property damage to the school facilities were read.

Objections were made by Robert Harvey that there would not be sufficient parking facilities, that there would not be adequate plans for cleaning the area, and objections were also made about the school board leasing land to a profit-making corporation.

It was pointed out by Marshall that the lease was to the Varsity S — a non-profit organization — and that the proceeds from the concessions that went to the Varsity S would be turned back to the district.

Board Votes Approval

After the insertion of the stipulation that 50 per cent of the concessions net profit would go to the Varsity S — a stipulation raised by direction John Baynor — the board voted to lease the land, with only Harvey dissenting.

Earlier in the meeting, when the possibility of leasing the land to the Festival Corporation for a fee was raised, Cohen countered with the possibility of taking the concessions profits for the corporation.

Subsequent approval of the Borough is needed before the festival is brought here, and many legal knots must be worked out between the sponsoring organizations and the festival personnel.

Returns Letter Unopened:

Adenauer Rebuffs Bidault's Request For Asylum

BONN, Germany (AP)—Put on the spot by a quirk of French politics, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday rebuffed an appeal from his old friend Georges Bidault for asylum as the fugitive foe of Adenauer's new friend, Charles de Gaulle.

But Adenauer's government said it would have no objection if Bavarian state authorities gave refuge to Bidault under certain conditions. It did not spell out these conditions. A highly informed source said the most important one was the Bidault stop all political activity.

Switzerland eliminated itself as a possible haven. A Swiss government spokesman said Bidault, political leader of the French right-wing Secret Army organization, and his chief aide, Jacques Soustelle, would not be allowed to cross the frontier.

"They are leading a conspiracy against the legal government of France, a friendly neighboring country, and Switzerland cannot grant asylum to persons active in such a movement," he said.

Austria remained a possibility in case Bidault is expelled. The dapper French resistance leader, who formed close ties with Adenauer as foreign minister and premier in the years after World War II, was located by police at a Bavarian hideout Sunday. He had dispatched a hand-written letter to the chancellor asking him personally for political refuge.

Deputy press chief Werner Krueger said Adenauer, apparently learning in advance of Bidault's intention, sent back the letter unopened.

But Krueger pointed out that under German law the decision on whether Bidault should be given asylum or expelled was up to local authorities of Bavaria, where Bidault remains under police surveillance and protection.

The Secret Army's main aim is elimination of De Gaulle, the French president with whom Adenauer signed a treaty Jan. 21 to promote enduring cooperation in diplomacy and defense between their peoples, historic enemies.

A French firing squad Monday executed Lt. Col. Jean-Marie Bastien-Thiry, 35, confessed mastermind of a machine gun ambush last Aug. 22 in which De Gaulle narrowly escaped. Bastien-Thiry was shot and buried in an unmarked grave at Ft. D'Ivry, near Paris. De Gaulle commuted the death sentences of two of the officer's accomplices.

A warrant issued in Paris last August accuses Bidault of clandestine activities against the French state.

In a news conference here, the Interior Ministry emphasized that so far as is known Bidault has violated no West German law. The crime with which he is charged in France is considered political and therefore provides no ground for an extradition request. The French government, aware of this, reportedly has made no bid for his return.

Kennedy Asks Speed On Program; Cites Need To Curb Unemployment

Says Economy Must Provide More Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy prodded Congress on Monday to get moving on his tax cut and other economic proposals to curb rising unemployment, a condition he views as a national disgrace.

The President plugged for his programs in transmitting the first annual manpower report to Congress. It describes an economy growing steadily more efficient and less able to provide jobs for a rapidly increasing population.

"Ours is a rich nation," Kennedy said, "but not inexhaustibly so. There are 32 million Americans still on the fringes of poverty, and worse. A nation can waste its resources as surely as an individual can. The greatest waste today is that of unemployment."

Master Or Servant

Kennedy said the problems involve "not only the job security of the individual, but in a broader sense, the question whether man will be the master or the servant of the machines he creates."

Underlining the President's message and a separate Labor Department manpower report is the rise of unemployment from 5.3 per cent to 6.1 per cent of the work force in February.

Saying that for too long there have been only pious statements about curbing unemployment, the President promised that effective today "we have committed ourselves to a national policy designed to provide all Americans with the opportunity to develop and use their talents and energies to the maximum of which they are capable."

To continue to do otherwise, he said, means a loss of potentially high living standards and underdevelopment of the nation's capabilities.

Backs Tax Cuts

Tax cuts, he said, "will provide enlarged consumer markets and encourage increased investment, thereby setting in motion demand for additional work and workers."

Highlights Of Report

Here are some of the highlights of the manpower report:

Unemployment and underemployment — involuntary part-time work — wasted a billion work days in 1962. The lost work time was equal to shutting down the entire economy for more than three weeks.

In the decade 1947-57 private nonfarm industries generated 700,000 new jobs a year. In the ensuing five-year period, 1957-62, they generated fewer than 200,000 jobs a year; and

For each of the past five years the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate has been 5.5 per cent or more of the work force.

Kennedy said it is singular that of all the new jobs created in the past five years two-thirds are in state and local government, mostly school teachers.

As a measure of the effect of new machines and technology while production in the private economy increased 60 per cent in the 1947-62 period, more than 80 per cent of the gain was due to increasing output per manhour. Less than 20 per cent was attributable to more jobs and work time.

Senate Readies For Action On Development Funds

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday cleared for floor action a bill that would allocate $4 million in additional funds this year for industrial development.

Only last week the House gave unanimous approval to the measure less than an hour after Gov. Scrantom outlined his proposals for industrial development. The additional appropriation is a key feature of his plan.

The money would go to the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority to provide additional matching funds by the Commonwealth for communities seeking to attract new industry.

The measure is expected to get speedy action in the Senate, probably next week.

Walter Seeks Legislation To Offset Mallory Decision

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY RECORD
WASHINGTON — Rep. Francis E. Walter, Eastern Democrat, has called on the House of Representatives to amend the United States Code in order to "litigate the ill effects of the Mallory decision."

Walter's bill is designed "to strengthen the laws of this country for the people's better protection from acts perpetrated by criminals and subversives."

The proposed legislation, Walter said, is particularly important to the District of Columbia. The congressman said that as a result of the Mallory decision "scores of other criminals had been let loose free and permitted to endanger public safety and security."

Walter's bill deals with the admissibility as evidence of statements and confessions against defendants in criminal cases.

The bill reads that "evidence including statements and professions otherwise as admitted admissible shall not be inadmissible solely because of delay in taking an arrested person before a commissioner or other officer empowered to commit the persons charged with offenses against the laws of the United States; provided that such delay is to be considered as an element in determining the voluntary or involuntary nature of such statements or confessions."

Walter's bill insists, however, that statements or confessions can be taken during an interrogation only after an accused person has been advised of his constitutional rights.

On another feature of the administration's legislative program — education — the Senate again amended the much worked-over Scrantom plan that would establish a state board of education. The board would assume all of the policy-making authority now vested in the department of public instruction. The department would be left with the task of administration.

Amendments offered Monday were designed to clarify technical features of the bill, said Sen. Stanley Stroup, R-Bedford, a member of the Education Committee.

Democrats pressed again for public hearings on the board of education plan. They threatened to hold their own hearings if Republicans didn't agree to formal public legislative hearings.

Minority Leader Charles R. Weiner, D-Phila., delivered the ultimatum after Sen. Paul L. Wagner, R-Schuylkill, chairman of the Education Committee, said he had no plans presently to call for hearings.

Further amendments deferred the bill probably until next week. The House adjourned until 1:30 p.m., Tuesday; the Senate until 3 p.m. Tuesday.

'Deal' On Missiles Is Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told congressmen that there may be several hundred missiles in Cuban caves, but he said he is convinced they are all relatively small, defensive weapons.

McNamara expressed confidence in the Kennedy administration's Cuban policy and attacked critics who "damn the intelligence community without knowing more about it." Such criticism "is doing our nation a disservice," the secretary said.

In secret testimony released Monday by the House Armed Services Committee, McNamara said there was no deal between the United States and the Soviet Union to swap Soviet missiles in Cuba for U. S. rockets in Turkey and Italy.

"There is absolutely no connection whatsoever between the forced removal by the U. S. military pressure upon Cuba of the Soviet missiles introduced in Cuba on the one hand and—not the removal but the modernization—of the missiles in Turkey and Italy."

Polaris missiles based on nuclear submarines in the Mediterranean area will have "a much higher probability of survival in the face of a sudden, nuclear attack," he said. The Polaris submarines are to replace the relatively vulnerable, above-ground Jupiter missile installations in Italy and Turkey.

Cramer Named On Game Board

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Monday unanimously confirmed Loring H. Cramer of Stroudsburg as a member of the State Game Commission. The vote was 48-0.

Cramer was named by Gov. Scrantom to succeed Russell L. Mervine of East Stroudsburg, whose eight-year term expired.

What's For Breakfast?

There are days when a State Policeman doesn't even get a chance to finish his breakfast. Yesterday was one of them.

Sgt. Millard Wolfe and Trooper Steven Sabin of the Fern Ridge State Police barracks were eating breakfast in the Log Cabin Inn at Fern Ridge about 7:30 a.m. when a deer leapt through a window about six feet from their table.

The animal, a 125-pound doe, overturned a double frying unit just inside the window, spilling three gallons of cold oil. The doe fell, scrambled to its feet, overturned a box of soap powder and fell again at the back of the restaurant.

It was cornered there by Robert Knorr, brother-in-law of Mrs. Eva Knorr, proprietor of the restaurant, Wolfe and Sabin.

The three roped the deer, dragged it to the kitchen door and released it. The doe, which suffered cuts, disappeared into the woods.

EIGHT DIE IN PENNSYLVANIA BLAZE—A small pile of smoking rubble is searched by firemen at Butler, Pa., after fire raged through the two-story farm home. A dairy farmer, his six children and a nephew perished in the fire. His wife escaped and summoned firemen but it was too late to save the others. Dead was Paul Rosenberger, 41, and the children who ranged in age from four years to 18. (AP Wirephoto)

Macmillan Seeks To Repair Anglo-French Relationships

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan embarked Monday on an attempt to repair the rift between Britain and France and bolster the military, economic and political strength of Western Europe.

His new move, in its formative stage as yet, was undertaken with the tacit blessing of the United States.

His major aim is to prevent the initiative for shaping the future of Western Europe from falling by default to President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Diplomatic sources said Macmillan specifically wants to keep open the prospect that Britain can join the Common Market at some later date, after dissipating French objections on this subject.

N-Force Incentive

Macmillan also wants European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to push ahead with the multinational nuclear force idea which he and President Kennedy developed at their Nassau conference last December, informants said.

A broad outline of Macmillan's objectives was discussed at a Foreign Office meeting presided over by Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath. More than 20 British ambassadors and senior officials from key posts in Europe were called in for this conference. This is related to a second move—dispatching of foreign secretary Lord Home to Paris on March 19 and 20 to address a regular meeting of the NATO permanent council.

Strains have developed in the Atlantic alliance generally and Western Europe in particular since the Jan. 28 meeting in Brussels, Belgium, when France vetoed Britain's bid to join the Common Market.

Relationship Ebbs

British-French relations at the moment are at one of the lowest ebbs in this century. Britain's failure to get into the Common Market was followed by Macmillan's refusal to allow Princess Margaret to go to Paris for a charity social affair—a decision widely criticized in London.

Fuel was added to the flames by the recent appearance on British television of former French Premier Georges Bidault, a sworn enemy of De Gaulle. The incident was not a direct responsibility of Macmillan's government but it ruffled French feelings.

Livingston Merchant, President Kennedy's special envoy, meets with Lord Home, Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft and other British officials on Tuesday.

Lenten Meditation

By Rev. P. N. Wohlens, D. D., Pastor Emeritus, St. John's Lutheran Church

CHRISTIANS have reached the halfway mark in the journey to the Cross. It is time to make a self-examination to determine the value of this season upon us.

We ask: Has it meant anything of spiritual value to us? Has it been merely a rehearsal of the events that led to the sacrificial offering by Christ on Calvary? Has it meant merely a time to weep over the cruelty suffered by Jesus?

Or has it been the means of cultivating a deeper sense of our own sinfulness and need of Christ, for not only forty days, but for the 365 days in the year and all the years of our life?

These are vital matters about which we should ponder and through the help of the Holy Spirit be led to a more profound understanding as to what it means to be a disciple of our Lord Jesus.

Doubtless, some of us found innumerable excuses for not being faithful in our acceptance and appreciation of the love which has been an aid in daily life. There is still time to go with Him, so that His Passion, suffering, forsakenness and the like can have real value for us.

We suffer because of our sinful nature, but He was the sinless One who suffered, endured, was lonely and bore His Cross so that all others might experience God's love for us.

Only as we follow with Him, can such experience be ours. It is then that we see ourselves and our vital need of such love. Only then are we able to bear our burdens, experience loneliness, suffering and numerous human burdens.

Even as He was left alone as the faithful followers forsook Him. He continued on because He knew that He was doing the will of the Father for God's creation.

In the garden when His followers fell asleep; even when greed caused one to bargain for Him; even when His enemies sought to take Him prisoner; even when the impetuous one was ready to use the sword; even when subtly accused by the religiousists; when tried by a pagan governor; when the crowds shouted crucify, Jesus displayed a strong element of faith which we all need in our days of consternation, confusion, materialism and the desire to carry out man's pattern of life instead of the world's concept.

Just as He sought the help from above to drink the bitter cup, so might we turn to our Lord with profound prayer from the heart, so that we might gain the divine strength and wisdom to meet such issues and be found more closely drawn to God for the balance of our lives.

It is then and then only that this sacred season of Lent will have value for us. It will establish us more firmly with Him, who promised: "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

When our Christian nation accepts that assurance can we terminate life here with an untold number of victories and experience an abiding peace of heart, mind and even among the nations of the world.

Yes, by all means follow Him during these days; but above all make this season count as something for us of real value in the days, months and years ahead. Remember "That God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him, shall have everlasting life."

County Farm Produces 28,816 Quarts Of Milk

CHARLES Haney, superintendent of Monroe County Home, yesterday presented the commissioners with the year-end report of the home.

The report showed total amounts of meat, eggs and other farm products produced on the farm during 1962.

During the year 28,816 quarts of milk were obtained from cows on the farm. More than 3,000 dozen eggs were gathered from the chickens.

Also, grown was 28 tons of hay. This was baled. There was 28 tons of corn grown and stored in the corn crib on the property. From the fields, material was taken to make 85 tons of silage for use during the year.

In the grains products 880 bushels of oats was grown and 850 bushels of wheat was obtained. There was also 165 bushels of potatoes taken from the ground on the farm, and nine tons of straw was harvested.

Of the total pounds of products grown on the farm the farmer delivered meat and dairy products to the Monroe County Jail. Deliveries consisted of 660 pounds of pork, 63 pounds of chicken, 8,200 quarts of milk, 350 dozen eggs, and 4,070 pounds of potatoes.

400 Cans of Tomatoes
Of the crops grown on the farm there were 400 cans of tomatoes prepared: 40 bushels of string beans, 50 bushels of corn, 25 bushels of beets, 1,210 pounds of cabbage, 10 pounds of carrots and 150 cans of applesauce were also prepared.

At the close of the year there were 36 pigs, six milking cows, four heifers, seven steers and one bull on the farm.

The report showed that all equipment on the farm was in good repair.

Rev. Young Ordained To Priesthood

MT. POCONO — Rev. Ernest S. Young, vicar of Trinity Episcopal Church, was ordained to the church's priesthood by Rt. Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, bishop of Bethlehem, at recent services.

Rev. John F. Eberman, vicar of Emmanuel Church, Madison Heights, Va., delivered the ordination sermon.

Rev. Young was presented by Rev. Charles A. Park, rector of Christ Church, Stroudsburg. The litany for ordination was read by Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, Jr., rector of Emmanuel Church, Richmond, Va.

At the Eucharist, the epistle was read by Rev. H. Diehl, rector of All Saints' Church, Lehigh, and the gospel Rev. William W. Trumbore, vicar of St. George's Church, Nanticoke. Rev. George Richards, vicar of St. Paul's Church, White Haven, was the bishop's chaplain.

Among clergy attending were Rev. Eugene Patton, Rev. William Stevens, Rev. Sydney Fisher, Venerable Dean T. Stevenson and Rev. Edward Stuess.

Rev. Young, who has been vicar of Trinity Church since July 1, celebrated his first Eucharist Sunday.

New Land Manager Named For Northeast Division

JOHN A. Booth has been assigned by the Pennsylvania Game Commission, to the position of Land Manager, in Land Management Group 4, Northeast Division.

This Land Management Group consists of the counties of Carbon, Monroe, Lackawanna, and that portion of Luzerne County lying east of the Susquehanna River. There are 87,607 acres of State Game Lands and 26,335 acres of Farm Game Projects located in this district.

Booth will be in charge of the land development work in the district. This work consists of woodland border cutting, food plot development work, tree and shrub planting, refuge and road maintenance and other practices which are beneficial to wildlife.

Booth is a recent graduate of the Ross Leffler School of Conservation, which is located near Brookway. During the 10 month training period, he successfully completed intensive courses in biology, land management, game law, legal procedure, police sciences, game management and propagation, public relations and public speaking.

A graduate of Mansfield Senior High School, Booth was active in the vocational agriculture course. He served with the U.S. Army, as a member of the 7th Division Rifle Team from 1955-57.

He is married to the former Donna June Soper, and the couple has two children. Booth has established headquarters at R.D. 1, White Haven.

County Budget Reduced One Mill

MONROE County commissioners yesterday tentatively approved a reduced 1963 budget. With final approval, taxpayers in the county may expect a one mill deduction in county taxes.

The new millage, if final approval is given in April, will be five mills for the county and three mills for institution districts.

Tentative figure for the general budget is $612,000. For the institution district the figure is $233,600. Some of the costly expenditures of the general budget are:

Election costs, $18,500. This amount is for materials to be used in the primary and general elections this year; $37,500 for the operation of the chief assessor's office; $18,000 for the payment of material, supplies and telephone in the office of register and recorder.

Also, $290,000 for administration of county commissioners' office; $10,000 for the office of district attorney; $37,000 for employees of the court, excluding the probation offices.

For the adult probation office, $8,200 and $7,500 for the juvenile probation office. For Monroe County Jail $52,700, which includes $11,000 to be paid for the present renovation in the jail.

Another big item in the budget is care of prisoners in state prisons, $38,000. Cost for the same item in 1962 was about $37,000. Also called for in the 1963 budget is $10,000 as payment for flood control in the Boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Civil Defense has been allocated $15,000, of which half will be returned by the federal government. Pocono Mountain Airport has also been allocated $10,000.

Monroe County Historical Society is slated for $1,000; A Company First Battle Group, Pennsylvania National Guard, East Stroudsburg is scheduled to receive $800 from the county.

The commissioners, in preparing the budget, also have included a $5,500 contribution to the General Hospital of Monroe County; $4,000 to child guidance, $6,000 to the law library; and $10,600 to the county library.

Institutional Budget

Total figure for the institution district is $233,600. The money will be raised on a tax millage of three mills.

Several of the larger items of expense are $49,000 for the operation of the county home; $21,000 for salaries of doctors and nurses in the home; $14,300 for the operation of the county farm; $70,000 for Children's Aid Society, earmarked for children in foster homes. Last year this item cost $67,000.

For care of children in public institutions, $20,000; for care of children in private institutions, $3,000, and $7,000 for foster care of adults.

Open For Inspection

The budget is now in the commissioners' office and is open to inspection by the public.

Final action on the budget will be taken by the commissioners at their April 1 meeting.

Barrett GOP Plans Meeting

JOHN Nauman and Mrs. Lydia Christensen, Barrett Township Republican committeeman and committeewoman, have called a special meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Barrett Branch YMCA.

The purpose of the meeting is to fill the Republican ballot for the May 27 primary election. Candidates must be chosen for office of township supervisor, two school directors and township auditor.

All Republicans in the township are urged to attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Madison Shoe Didn't Get Aid

MADISON Shoe Corp. yesterday told The Daily Record it has never received financial assistance from the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority or anyone else.

Julius J. DeVos, president, made the statement in reference to a story which quoted the State Dept. of Internal Affairs as saying that the local firm received a $200,000 loan from PIDA.

GEORGE Washington and Thomas Jefferson advocated using the metric system for measures in 1790.

Wind Gap Inn Loses Court Battle

SCRANTON — A Wind Gap business place was enjoined from allowing any further public performance of two popular standard ballads — "September in the Rain" and "Sentimental Journey."

Chief Federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan also ordered Rader's Ross Common Inn, Inc., to pay damages of $250 each to the plaintiffs, Remick Music Corp. and Edwin H. Morris & Co., and to pay court costs and a "reasonable" attorney fee in the amount of $100.

The two music firms claimed the songs were performed publicly at the inn on July 27, 1962, in violation of their copyrights. Remick has the rights to "September in the Rain," which was written by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, while the Morris firm holds title to "Sentimental Journey," by Bud Green, Les Brown and Ben Homer.

The judgment was handed down on the basis of a complaint filed through the Scranton law firm of Welles, Mackie & McGrath.

Head Majorette At Bangor High

BEVERLY Korell was elected head majorette at the Bangor Area Joint High School recently. Ann Herd and Faye Ronca were elected regular majorettes and Elaine Malazzo was named substitute majorette.

Judges were Miss Irene Jurbala, Mrs. Carol Jones, Earl Rader, Mrs. Kathryn Schott, and Miss Diane Ackerman.

Other majorettes on the squad are Marilyn Butz, Judy Fields, Bonnie Ott, Barbara Kressler, Donna Bell, Claire McFall, and Melanie Miller.

40th Snowfall Drops On Poconos

THE 40th snowfall fell on Monroe County and the Pocono Mountains last night.

The fall caused hazardous driving conditions throughout the county.

Monroe County Highways Department trucks and personnel started ashing the main roads early last night.

The light snowfall reached only two inches in depth high in the mountains, officials reported.

Three Cars Skid, Crash At Same Site

THREE CARS skidded on an icy stretch of Route 512, one mile west of Moorestown, within minutes of each other at 8:30 a.m. yesterday.

Two struck a four-foot embankment, the third knocked down a mail box, climbed an embankment and overturned. No one was injured, but damage to the vehicle was considerable.

Thomas C. Nottle, Bushkill Township police chief, identified the drivers as Robert Singer, 40, Shawnee-on-Delaware; Leonard Ronco, 50, of 815 Roosevelt Ave., Roseto, and Joseph J. Sacker, 50, East Stroudsburg RD 1.

Sacker's vehicle, which overturned, was demolished. The other two were towed from the scene.

Nottle was assisted in the investigation by Chief Harvey Miller of Moore Township.

Blue Valley Garden Club Elects Aides

BANGOR — Mrs. Audrey Weidlick resigned as vice president of the Blue Valley Garden Club at a meeting last night in the office of the Flory Milling Co.

Mrs. Flossie Dungan was appointed to replace her and Richard Mutton was named to the board of directors to replace Mrs. Dungan.

New members accepted included Mrs. Harry Weaver, Sherwood Hill, Mrs. David Peiffer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dorney, Mrs. Earl Kressler, Mrs. Daniel Phillips, Mrs. Merle Mabus, Mrs. Carl Kressler, Mrs. Clyde Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Eckert and Mrs. Amzi Miller.

A tournament on arrangements was held with winners on the theme, "Irish Holiday," being Mrs. Lena Eyer, first; Mrs. Ardy Van Horn, second; Mrs. Betty Herd, third, and Mrs. Elda Pyscher, honorable mention.

Winners on the theme, "Imagination," were Mrs. Van Horn, first; Mrs. Floyd Breidinger, second; Mrs. Pyscher, third and Mrs. Dungan, honorable mention.

Judges were Mrs. David Eyer and Mrs. Quintin Gilbert of the Moorestown Garden Club.

The next meeting will be April 15. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Walter Buzzard and members of the hospitality committee.

Price Seeks Republican Nod For Commissioner

JOHN M. Price, of N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, last night announced he will seek nomination and election as a Republican candidate for Monroe County commissioner in the May primary election.

He was born in Barrett Township, a son of the late Charles and Annie W. Price.

Kresge Asks 'Hands Off' GOP Policy

HAROLD B. Kresge said last night he is endorsing no Republican candidates for office in the May primary election and he is asking the Monroe County Republican Committee to take the same position.

Kresge, named liaison officer between the county GOP organization and the administration of Gov. William W. Scranton, made the statement at a meeting of candidates and potential candidates at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The meeting was called to discuss strategy and ground rules for the campaign.

Kresge said most of the candidates indicated they are satisfied with the "hands off" policy. He said some of them were concerned because they thought he was going to pick a slate of candidates and added, "I never had that in mind."

Kresge said last night's session will be the last meeting until after the last day for withdrawal at which time he will set up a meeting of the county committee and candidates.

He said the candidates agreed that the top vote getter in the primary will have the support of the others in the general election.

Trucker Held On $500 Bail

WIND GAP — William Peoples, 22, of 1326 E. Gibson St., Scranton, was arrested by Thomas C. Nottle, Bushkill Township police chief, yesterday morning and confined to Northampton County Prison in default of $500 bail on charges of driving while his license was suspended.

Nottle said Peoples told him he lost his license for one year in October for operating while under suspension in Wyoming County and had been driving since.

Peoples was the driver of one of three tractor-trailers stopped by Nottle for speeding when it was discovered he had no license.

Peoples pleaded guilty to the charge before Paul Messinger, Bushkill Township justice of the peace.

Wrong Approach

The principal argument in favor of a reduction in income taxes is that it is vitally necessary if this country is to achieve the needed rate of economic progress and escape possible stagnation. Many authorities feel that some of the concern over our rate of economic growth may have a false basis in excessively optimistic forecasts of what growth should be.

George Shea, writing in the Wall Street Journal, says, "... it is doubtful that the reduced pace of growth can be ascribed wholly to burdensome taxes. The whole postwar background suggests that growth would have slowed down no matter what the Government did. The postwar boom was sparked by the existence of enormous consumer and production needs, accumulated during not only the years of wartime scarcities but also the long years of depression idleness in the 1930's."

Tax reduction is desirable—if (and this is an "if" of real stature) it can be accomplished without more inflation. But the effect of tax reduction depends upon how it is made. As Mr. Shea points out individual savings have been growing at a record rate. And much of the cash in hand resulting from presently proposed tax reductions might very well go into savings plans of one kind or another, rather than into the channels of commerce.

It's time to learn from the experience of others. Japan and Western European nations, whose growth we envy, have kept redesigning their tax systems to encourage investment in business and industry. The United States can't afford politically flavored tax cuts which perpetuate budget deficits and continue to penalize productive individuals and industry.

Celestial Exhaust Problem

The era of the really big rocket booster is fast coming on the world. And no one is yet sure just what effect the repeated emptying of tons of exhaust gases in the upper atmosphere will have upon the weather, space ship reentry, and radio transmission.

Fortunately the American Defense Department and various scientific groups have begun to explore the subject. But they are still in such a preliminary stage that they may be said only to be investigating to see how much they will need to investigate.

Heightened public and congressional interest in the matter would not be amiss, however, since potential disruption of the weather and the earth's dosage of ultraviolet rays are matters that could make Cuba and the Congo seem relatively about as important as the War of Jenkins' Ear.

The public obviously must wait on the geophysicists for recommendations on whether an intensified study—and more funds—are needed. No facts uncovered so far should lead to ban-the-rocket emotionalism. But upper air pollution potentially involves many more people than have been caught in the lower air smog problems that crept up on Los Angeles and London.

If the publics of the Soviet Union and the United States are eager to get on with their prestigious space programs they should not remain entirely oblivious to the by-products their international sprint may cause.

Let's Have Courage

Coming home from the South by the route that takes you along the outermost edge of North America, you see from the deck of the old Norfolk-Kiptopeke ferry boat that one of the great engineering marvels is now nearing completion. It is the 23-mile long Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel, which will span the open stretch of Atlantic ocean between Virginia's Cape Henry and Cape Charles.

Not so many miles from there to the north, as you drive your car over a small bridge, you note that one of the earliest engineering accomplishments of the American nation, the open ditch that connects the Delaware and Chesapeake bays, is flowing there beneath you.

The newest structure has taken the most intricate sort of cooperation between political agencies and private contractors specializing in such things as the lacing of steel, the sinking of caissons and the pumping of tons of sand. The oldest structure was dug by hand labor.

Yet, in its day, the Delaware-Chesapeake Canal was just as much of a miracle as the 200-million-dollar combination of bridges, tunnels and artificial islands that will shortly enable trucks to thunder from New York to Norfolk and the Carolinas without stopping for anything but gas.

The Delaware-Chesapeake Canal was a miracle because it was the first instance of economic and cultural permeation in a world that wasn't sure it wanted any such thing. Out of the first efforts of Maryland and Delaware to do something to make concourse easier between them came the Annapolis Convention, which was the precursor of the Constitutional Convention of 1787.

The old canal that was originally dug as the result of an agreement between states that weren't yet part of a union stands as the first monument to something that has gone on with only momentary interruption ever since George Washington and Alexander Hamilton decided that it was silly for each separate colony to live by itself.

Today, as a result of the standardization that the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel will hurry along at a still faster pace, the permeation of culture is drowning out practically all the significant old-time regional differences.

If you talk with Anthony Harrigan in Charleston, S.C., he will tell you that his Carolina compatriots are tired of battling their heads against the wall in the efforts to stem integration. Hence the comparative lack of fuss about the enrollment of a Negro at Clemson College.

A generation ago, says Mr. Harrigan, Southern novelists found significant themes in the tension between the old local and the new national ways. But today the problems facing individuals in the South are more or less like the problems that face Americans anywhere — and the South is no longer producing its distinctive writers.

Little things testify to the permeation of culture. If you are an ice skater, you can find modern ice rinks in Carolina cities and in Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood in Florida. Maybe it won't be long before they have artificial snow-making machines creating ski resorts in the Great Smoky Mountains.

In this matter of the permeation of culture, the drift has largely been from North to South. True enough, the first supermarket — the Piggly Wiggly chain store — was a Southern creation, but the Dixie suburbs that are served by really modern supermarkets have, by that token, a Northern flavor.

In one important respect, however, the South hasn't given way to Northern attitudes. The deepest impression I have carried home from a brief period below the Mason-Dixon line that was made memorable by many conversations is that Southerners far surpass Northerners in their political realism and in their feeling for self-preservation.

The South is demonstrably alive to the Cuban portent as people in the North are not. Where the Northern "liberal" puts his trust — or his hopes — in words, the Southerner knows that if your enemy has a preponderance of power he will not quibble about using it against you whenever the moment is propitious.

Knowing their own constituents, and consulting their own sense of realism as well, Southern Senators have been taking the lead in complaining of President Kennedy's indecisiveness on Cuba and in keeping our armaments up to snuff.

The permeation of culture obviously is destined to go on. But if it must end by making attitudes the same everywhere, let us hope that the Southern instinct for self-preservation will have at least some effect on the North.

Veteran's Guide

Q — The VA is urging veterans who draw compensation and pension and who also have GI insurance to have their insurance premiums deducted from their compensation or pension payments. If I do this, how will I benefit?

A — The VA points out such procedure would not only avoid the chance of a lapsed policy, but would also save the veteran the time and cost of drawing a check or money order and mailing it to his VA insurance office.

Q — What is the first step in applying for a GI loan to buy a home?

A — First a certificate of eligibility must be obtained from a VA regional office. These certificates now show the expiration date of the veteran's entitlement to obtain a loan.

Harrisburg — Postponed summer vacations may well be in order of the day of Pennsylvania's 260-member brood!

Admittedly any discourse on the subject of summer vacations in this snow drift and ice-jam time of year may seem somewhat out of order—but the simple fact is that Pennsylvania's 1963 Legislature now appears headed for a somewhat testy, rather long and drawn out session.

In recent weeks Republican administration legislative leaders have been taking double looks at the calendar and the legislative program that may be needed for the Scranton Administration—with the result that apprehensive and doleful countenances are beginning to dot the legislative scene on Capitol Hill.

Why does the problem fall in the laps of Republican legislative leaders? They are the ones who control both the House and Senate—and therefore must be the ones to carry the ball for the new in office Republican Scranton Administration.

Why does the 1963 session appear headed for a late summer or early fall adjournment—rather than the early June cut-off as originally envisioned by legislative leaders?

There are several reasons—but the most significant revolves around that odoriferous subject of finances.

If, as indicated in this column yesterday, between $100 and $125 will be needed in the form of "New" monies on the basis of mandated expenditure increases alone, this unquestionably will require either new or expanded taxes—or both.

On Capitol Hill a new or expanded tax just isn't whisked through in a week or two.

The question might well recur though: If Republicans control both the House and Senate, why can't they "ram through" the tax program speedily and get out of town?

Unfortunately—or fortunately—it isn't quite that simple.

In the first place, the legislative machinery the Republicans have to work with plays the most vital role. If (the machinery) isn't too impressive!

In the 50-man Senate, 26 votes are needed to whistle through legislation. The Senate GOP bloc consists of 27 members—or just one to spare above the 26-vote majority required.

One sick member and one defector could stop any such legislation in its tracks!

In the House of Representatives a sick-looking where Republican bloc—hold just three votes above the 106 required to clear legislation in that chamber.

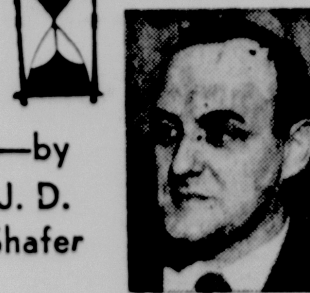

No one (particularly politicians and lawmakers) goes into joyous convulsions over the prospect of levying a tax; in fact many convulse at the thought of having to levy one.

Thus it isn't a question of simply having the majority blocs cut through a tax bill; it's a question of trying to line up the votes within the bloc—or if this fails, lining up support within the opposition bloc.

Such scramblings as this never seem to work out speedily. They wind up in long drawn out, scraggly, boondoggling affairs that can prolong a legislative session indefinitely, as for example occurred in that abortive, record-breaking 17-month 1955-56 session.

On this score there is at least one hopeful and encouraging note: the 1963 session can't possibly last as long as that 1955 fiasco—inasmuch as under the present annual sessions plan a session ends automatically at the beginning of the next year's session! (Back in 1955 Pennsylvania was still on the two-year biennial schedule.)

Postponed Vacations?

Off The Record

By BOB CLARK

Dr. Earl Willhoite, a man with far-flung experience in music, had the honor last week of taking in two performances that drew the raves of experts from near and far.

We are referring to Shawnee Choir's concert at Atlantic City and the Northeast Regional High School Band Festival at East Stroudsburg High School.

At Atlantic City, Dr. Willhoite was in the capacity of director of Shawnee, while at East Stroudsburg, the Shawnee musical choir director served in a critic's category.

But in both instances Dr. Willhoite sang the praises of his own group and the schoolboys and girls who worked under the baton Iowa State's Frank Persol.

Shawnee Choir gained in stature at Atlantic City," Dr. Willhoite emphasized. "It was an experience they never will forget."

"We were accepted in a manner reserved only for the top choral groups. That in itself was well worth the time and effort."

Dr. Willhoite was proud of the girls and boys who performed at East Stroudsburg High's auditorium Saturday night. "Those kids did a tremendous job," he pointed out.

He also noted the turnaway crowd at the Band Festival. "With that type of an audience youngsters will tend to give more of their hind ability," Dr. Willhoite said.

Shawnee Choir is considered one of the finest singing groups in the nation. And Dr. Willhoite is rated a par excellence as a teacher of choral music. It is no wonder then that the music educators of the nation found fit to invite the local group to head a program. It is no wonder either that they were welcomed as only the best in the trade is greeted.

Robert Zellner, East Stroudsburg High's director, proved that hard work and a tightly-knit organization will bring results when hosting an affair like the Northeast Regional Band Festival.

Naturally, East Stroudsburg is proud of its accomplishment. But a little more frosting was put on the cake when Dr. Willhoite, an expert known throughout the Fifty, put his stamp of approval on the concert.

Winter autoists will appreciate a cartoon from a Northwestern weekly that shows a weary husband who has just dug a 50-yard patch through a six-foot snowdrift from his garage to the road. As he is about to open the garage door with a sigh of relief, his wife calls out from the kitchen, "Oh, I forgot to tell you, dear I took the car over to mother's yesterday before the storm started."

The Allen-Scott Report

Switching N-Equipment Urged By NATO Powers

Washington — Special Ambassador Livingston Merchant is encountering an unexpected development in his urgent mission to persuade our NATO allies to accept Polaris missiles in place of the junked Skybolt.

They are displaying willingness to do that — but not as President Kennedy favors.

Merchant has sent word to the President that West Germany and Italy are urging they be permitted to equip conventional type submarines with the Polaris instead of the Kennedy plan of putting these missiles on surface ships.

These two major NATO Powers are backing up their surprise preference with some convincing military and economic arguments.

As reported by Merchant, Bonn and Rome contend that conventional undersea craft would be far less vulnerable to Soviet air and submarine attack and no more costly than missile-carrying surface vessels. In each instance, the cost to the U.S. and the NATO nations would be $40 million for non-nuclear submarines or for the surface ships equipped with 16 missiles.

That price tag is approximately one-fourth the cost of Polaris-firing nuclear submarines.

West German officials, who are quietly endeavoring to line up other NATO allies behind this undersea nuclear deterrent plan, further stress that its maintenance charge would be considerably less than surface ships.

With the new 2,500-mile range Polaris which the U.S. is now testing, the European authorities cite the fact that most Soviet population and defense centers would be at "point blank range" from undersea positions that could be used by missile-armed submarines.

They hold that Russia, like the U.S., has no detection system "that can make the oceans as transparent as the air" and will not have such a system for years to come.

Switching Arguments — Already Merchant's report, which demolished the administration's argument that a surface missile fleet would be less expensive, has sent Defense Secretary McNamara scurrying for new arguments for that plan.

With White House approval, McNamara cabled Merchant questioning the feasibility of manning Polaris subs with multi-national crews. The inference is that such crews would find it impossible to live and work together for long periods in cramped quarters. This view is based on naval studies of U.S. submarine crews.

Also, Merchant has been directed to stress that Congress would not approve funds for non-nuclear submarines for NATO, while the President probably could obtain support for surface ships. This assessment is reportedly based on talks with congressional leaders.

The final outcome of Merchant's difficult mission is not expected to be known until the NATO ministers meet in Ottawa May 21-23.

Although this spring meeting normally does not make headlines, this one will witness developments of far-reaching consequence to the future of NATO and President Kennedy's concept of a so-called independent nuclear deterrent force.

Watching Cuba — Senators probing the build-up of Soviet military forces in Cuba have photographic evidence to support those refugee reports that large quantities of weapons are being secreted in caves.

One photograph, now in the files of the Senate Armed Service Preparedness Subcommittee, shows a rail line leading into one of the biggest caves in Cuba. Large steel doors guarding the cave's entrance are clearly evident, as well as piles of stored equipment.

According to the Cuban defector, who obtained the photograph, the cave is being used to store large amounts of Russian electronic devices and ground-to-ground missiles with ranges up to 300 miles.

After being verified by other intelligence authorities, the photo was shown Major General Alva Fitch, chief of Army intelligence, when he testified behind closed doors.

Members of the committee, headed by Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., are convinced the unexpected appearance of this revealing photograph caused the Defense Department to let Fitch admit that "aerial photographs have further disclosed the extension of roads to known and suspect cave locations."

Until General Fitch made this significant admission, the position of the White House and Defense Department was that they had not been able to obtain photos of roads leading to the large Cuban caves.

Travel Notes — Brooks Hays, special presidential assistant, is being sent to Africa on a fact-finding mission. Hays, who departs March 26, will visit six countries, including Nigeria and Liberia. . . . Katanga's ex-President Moise Tshombe was spotted recently in a fashionable Paris restaurant eating a meal consisting of an omelet with crayfish tails, roast wild boar with waterbury sauce, leek meringue with chopped nuts and a bottle of claret. This feast was followed by an announcement by a Tshombe aide that he was en route to Switzerland for "treatment of a long-bottled Stomach complaint."

About Town

We recently installed one of the new phones with punched cards that do your dialing automatically on frequently-called numbers.

With the phone comes a number of plastic cards which look like a candy punch-board. You punch out holes in the card to correspond to the phone digits; insert the card in a slot in the dial face and a little device automatically calls the number.

The cards go into an index which is part of the phone face; you merely flip the index, pull out your wanted card and away you go into the great digit land!

It has another great advantage besides an exciting convenience. . . . It automatically sorts your friends into those who rate a punched card and those with out such status.

By all means TRY to get on our list!

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

By this morning you may be shoveling snow or chipping ice but I've got green grass growing on my desk. Real grass, grown by Girl Scout Troop 363, a pleasant reminder not only that this is Girl Scout Week, but also that Spring begins a week from Thursday.

As a matter of fact, not only do I have a miniature lawn on my desk but it's such a healthy plot that I mowed it with the scissors so there is also the smell of fresh-cut grass which is a nostalgic thing.

However, this was one weekend I spent no time envying travelers in tropic climes because we'd worked out the equivalent of the Working Girls Luxury Cruise: the Bridge Safari. All you need is four people who'd rather play bridge than eat or sleep, two decks of cards, and assorted cereales, and you're off for a fabulous weekend.

For all practical purposes you could be in Timbuctu, aboard a luxury cruise ship, or at a posh hotel hundreds of miles from home. As a matter of fact you get the same camaraderie as a develops on shipboard, the same sense of adventure as waiting in an African veldt for the big game to come in.

And along about 4 o'clock in the morning, the same hysterical levity that seems more like New Year's Eve with none of the next morning hangover. Some statistics might be in order: this safari started at 11 p.m. on Friday night and ended at the same hour on Sunday night.

There were 122 games played and the final score was only 76 points between top and bottom. The longest run by a player took 13 minutes to settle and the shortest 2. At the end of the game, we dreamed of cue birds, two-club convention and distribution that shouldn't happen to a dog.

Like the survivors of the Blizzard of '88, we have enough anecdotes stored up to last a lifetime, feel as if we'd been away from routine for a month, and will probably catch up on our sleep a week from Wednesday.

Red Cross Readies Budget; Activity Reports Given

Raymond Roberts gave a budget report at the meeting of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and a budget committee was named to set up the 1964 budget with Roberts, Mrs. Roman Batory, W. C. G. Peterson, James Gould, Lamont Hornbeck and Celeste Rossi serving on that committee.

Celeste Rossi, chairman, presided at the meeting and expressed the appreciation of the board to George Ockershausen for the blood drive held March 5 at East Stroudsburg State College when 121 pints of blood were collected. The next blood drive will be held April 15 at St. Matthew's Catholic Church from 9:45 to 3:45.

The home service report, read by Miss Donna Sandt in the absence of Mrs. Clifford Heller showed 14 active service cases, two telegrams, one emergency telegram, five day letters, 10

MARCH ARRANGEMENTS of wild grasses for the Daily Record's Arrangement-of-the-Month was created by Mrs. Elwood Grant of the Monroe Garden Club and will be on exhibit from March 11 to March 22 in the East Stroudsburg National Bank where Mrs. Howard Hartshorn, an employee, is identifying the different types of grasses used. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Wild Grasses In Garden Club Display

The Monroe County Garden Club, which has been providing an arrangement-of-the-month for Daily Record readers over the past year is going to make the arrangement available "in person" by displaying it at one of the banks of the community.

The first of the new arrangements went on display yesterday at the East Stroudsburg National Bank. Made by Mrs. Elwood Grant it features wild grasses with a copper pitcher giving importance to the triangular balanced form of the grasses. Mrs. Grant is conservation chairman and past president of the club.

Gravel holds the following grasses which are described in a card on the original arrangement: yellow foxtail, gathered in Nova Scotia; broom sedge, whose botanical name is composed of two Greek words meaning man and sword; gathered in Arizona; oat sprays from Florida; red top which grows in tall bunches along Pocono roadsides; and has a strange odor; pepper grass often called birds' seed or birds' pepper; the rosette seeds of which are relished by birds. Originating in Virginia it is now found almost everywhere.

Old Barns Present Picture What Householder Seeks In Landscaping His Home

An old barn with weeds growing around it seems to taper into the ground, its hard outlines softened, making it part of the landscape. This same effect is what the householder should strive to do in landscaping his home, Douglas Williams, head of the landscaping division of LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery, told members of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs at their meeting held at the Stroud Community House yesterday.

Landscaping should take the total picture into account, the whole portion of land which the eye can see in one glance, he pointed out. Natural scenery is the most beautiful and the efforts of the landscape artist should not be to distort nature but to arrange material natural to the area.

The first purpose of landscaping is for family enjoyment, he said, and the first question to be answered is how that can be achieved. Some families like outdoor living; others enjoy it most looking from inside out. If there are children, they may wish to incorporate a volleyball court. Many wish to incorporate a bird refuge.

The type of entertaining a family likes to do must also be considered and a terrace can often become one of the most-used parts of a house, he pointed out. A garden should also be an outward expression of individual creation and personal satisfaction, he said.

In the matter of choosing material, he suggested slow growing material from a source near home.

Natural Material

"Walk in the woods," Williams urged, "and see what material grows here. White pine, dogwood, apple, white and canoe birch, native varieties of azalea, rhododendron on the north side of the house were among his suggestions.

"Keep strong material at or below eye level," he suggested, using soft, open plants or trees to soften a stone corner, and work to a long range plan.

"Make use of the material already growing there," was another suggestion, "cutting back to rejuvenate it." Shade trees, being slow growing, should be planted first.

The most important effect of landscaping, Williams concluded, is to create a family atmosphere, a combination of the majesty of the mountains and the serenity of still water, using texture, color, scent, and bird call in personally desired proportions.

He was introduced by Miss Ruth Howlett, program chairman, who also distributed conservation booklets on Forest Bourne.

Musical portion of the program included "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," led by Mrs. Burton George with Mrs. Irving Foltz as pianist.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess presided at the business meeting when Mrs. Claude Lester gave the report of the nominating committee.

State Presented

Mrs. Edmund A. Strickland, president; Mrs. Arthur Schiebel, first vice president; Mrs. Henry Surrey, second vice president; Mrs. John C. Mullins, third vice president; Mrs. Eugene H. Cawley, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul E. McBride, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Harvey T. Pullen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Wallace, treasurer; and Mrs. Edward C. Hess, Mrs. Harold C. Edwards and Mrs. James N. Canfield, Jr., directors.

Mrs. Ernest H. Klingel gave the opening invocation. Mrs. Eugene Cawley reported on the meeting on Constitutional Revision which she had attended in which a Constitutional Convention was advocated over the slower revision by amendment. Members are urged to write Senator Scott and Representative Yetter on behalf of such a bi-partisan convention.

Also on the legislative scene, attention was called to the Library Appropriation Bill (PLA 388), to provide 4 1/2 million in state library aid.

Announcements included the Junior-Senior Mothers Night on April 2 at 8 p.m. in the YMCA and their fashion show to be held in the college dining room on Wednesday, March 20 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. All announced plans for the linen shower for Laurel Manor to which the public is invited to contribute linens or money, and of the County Federation Spring meeting to be held April 16 at Green Brook Country Club.

A dessert tea preceded the meeting with the table decorated with gold harps holding green carnations and surrounded by shamrocks; decorations repeated in the meeting room. Mrs. Elmer Christine, Mrs. Claude Cramer and Mrs. Howard Rockefeller were co-chairmen of the committee.

Also announced was the International Auction to be sponsored by the club.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Rev. Fr. William Cusick, moderator of the society, spoke of "A Day of Reconciliation." Rev. John Walsh attended the meeting. Mrs. Austin Kennedy and Mrs. Andrew McGinley served coffee after the meeting.

A No. 300 can weighs 15 1/2 ounces, a No. 303 can weighs one pound.

New York Play, New Movie Star Local Actors

Dramatic news is being made by two local people, each connected in some way with Judy Garland.

Jack Irwin has been cast as the male lead, opposite Liza Minnelli, daughter of Judy Garland and Vincent Minnelli, in an off-Broadway revival of "Best Foot Forward," now in rehearsal which will open in New York on March 27.

On the movie circuits, the United Artists release, "Dead to the World" a mystery thriller, is featuring Jack Irwin's wife, Jana Pearce, in the female lead. The picture is being shown as a co-feature with Judy Garland's new picture, "A Child is Waiting."

In the Poconos, the news is of interest because both of the Irwins are taking active roles in the community. Jana Pearce Irwin is opening classes for the new Children's Theatre, on Tuesday afternoon, March 12, at 4 p.m. at the Gallery of the Pocono Art Center above the Penny store. Her classes for adults are being held Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the same place from 7:30 to 9:30, also sponsored by the Pocono Art Center. Tel. 839-9167.

Irwin himself is scheduled as the next speaker at the Dutch Treat Club whose meeting has been changed to Monday, April 1, since Monday is the only night in which the New York play will not be given.

Legion Aux. In Joint Meeting With Post Thurs.

Poppies were ordered for the annual Poppy Sale in May at the March meeting of the George N. Kemp Post American Legion Aux. with Mrs. J. Schmidt presiding in the absence of the president. Medals for presentation in the schools have been received, it was announced.

Tentative plans were made for serving two small banquets and volunteers were requested. The unit has not yet reached its membership quota, it was announced and unpaid dues are to be paid to Mrs. Victor Koch, membership chairman.

The unit accepted an invitation from the post commander to attend a joint meeting with the post on Thursday night, March 14, at 8.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Heffer and Mrs. B. Heffer.

Plane Couldn't Land

A group of flying friends from Long Island took the long way around to visit Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Helmus of Henryville. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nolander, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gallagher of Sayville, L.I., were unable to land their plane at the Mount Pocono Airport, so they went to Allentown and hired a car to complete their journey to the Poconos.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, March 12, 1963
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)
Line up necessary talk and handle in the order of their importance. Some indispensable factors that be better understood. Don't act before full investigation, study. Mixed forces.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)
— You have more at work for you now than you realize. Use conveniences smartly, carefully. You, as other zodiacal members today, must note motivating elements, changing needs.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)
The little things you may let drift go unattended too long, may be the very things that could hold you back later when you think you are set to move forward. Bear this in mind now.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)
— Reflexes, intuition, business acumen should be keen today. You can manage in better-than-average fashion, but must take precautions not to underestimate or overestimate. Help avoid confusion.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)
— Especially for those under aspects: scientific endeavor, perfection of new devices, improved use of old methods, caring for children, the ill, etc. Do YOUR job well.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)
— Planetary aspects suggest that you keep nerves steady, be stalwart in all your efforts, and overlook others' idiosyncrasies, errors. Also, remember that you cannot go forward if you are looking backward.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)
— The position of Venus, highly auspicious, indicates many advantages and good offerings now, you should acknowledge much. Avoid haste, however.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)
— Differences of opinion should not cause unruly hassles, strained relations. Hold discussions to further worthy projects and causes, but avoid dissension. Go forward confidently.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)
— Anxiety and agitation slow up progress and smooth-going. Avoid both now. This is a good day for getting details straightened out, making amends where needed and making the most of your sense of humor.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)
— Correspondence, promises and agreements need special care now. Don't enter into any activity along these lines without thorough investigation.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)
— Strength of pure and surety of your ground will be needed now. In matters you question, be duly concerned to find CORRECT answers, not guesses. Call on your acute memory.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)
— Here is a splendid day for handling both routine matters and extraordinary projects. New advances are indicated in some ventures which have been standing still. Emphasize your ingenuity, advance well-considered opinions.

YOU BORN TODAY have a war with you that pleases, and influences without seeming to. Harmony, idealism and artistry are most important to you. You can succeed at unusual undertakings, your arduous and arduous, though you are able to "go it alone" when you take on a chore or project, you are needed by the Piscean, but once you guide yourself to top aims and stress your innate reliability and integrity, you can become successful. Birthdate: Gerard Mercator, Flemish geographer, cartographer; George Berkeley, Anglo-Irish bishop, philosopher.

No One Sure In Fights

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Boxing experts were generally agreed Monday that there is no sure thing in any of the three world championship fights scheduled Saturday night in Dodger Stadium.

The first of the 15-round matches pits welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York against Cuba-born Luis Rodriguez of Miami, Fla.

Griffith won a 10-round decision over long-armed Luis in New York but it was a split verdict and highly controversial, with most boxing writers at ringside of the opinion Rodriguez was the winner.

That was in 1960 and you can speculate which has developed more since that fight.

Featherweight champion Davey Moore is favored over another Cuban product, Sugar Ramos of Mexico City, and justifiably so.

But Moore is 29, has held the title since he knocked out Hogan (Kid) Bassey in Los Angeles in March 1959. Some critics feel that the veteran titleholder from Columbus, Ohio, has not boxed anyone of Ramos' ability in two years.

Ramos is just 21 but he has scored 30 knockouts in 43 fights. And, say his backers, Moore can be hurt with a solid smash. Carlos Hernandez broke Davey's jaw and stopped him in Caracas, Venezuela, in 1960.

Raymundo (Battling) Torres of Reynosa, Mex., is the favorite to defeat Roberto Cruz of Manila, P.I., for the world junior welterweight title vacated recently by Duilio Loi of Italy.

Torres is an exciting puncher, too, with 37 knockouts recorded in winning 47 of his 51 matches.

But 22-year-old Raymundo's four losses were all by knockouts. None of the winners could be called mediocre, however—a then-effective Joe Brown, Carlos Ortiz, the present world lightweight who in those fights was still a lightweight contender.

Cruz, 1, is the less seasoned. He has been stopped once in 24 bouts—on a cut eye.

"And while he was on his honeymoon," added his trainer, Dee Armour of Chicago, who also noted this was no time for Roberto to be boxing.

Of the three fights, it would appear that the Griffith-Rodriguez match has the best chance of going the full 15 rounds. Griffith is the harder puncher—but Rodriguez has never been knocked out in 52 trips into the ring.

Robinson Wants All In Batting

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds has his heart set on winning the National League championship this year in batting, home runs and runs batted in.

That's a big order against competition that includes Tommy Davis of Los Angeles, Willie Mays of San Francisco, Bill White of St. Louis and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, among others.

Robinson is 27 years old.

"I say that at this stage Robinson is as far along or further than Willie Mays or Mickey Mantle were of 27," says Reds Manager Fred Hutchinson.

Robinson's credentials are impressive. His 1962 batting average of .342 was second only to Davis' .346. His 39 home runs were topped only by Mays' 49 and Aaron's 45. His 136 runs batted in was third to Davis' 143, and Mays' 141.

Among outfielders playing in all or nearly all games he was tops with only two errors for a .994 average. He made 315 putouts as against 429 for Mays, who, however, made four errors.

So. Wayne Reesdale Games To Enter Honrepresentatives

NEWFOUNDLAND — Southern Wayne Joint School will send representatives to the varsity and junior varsity all-star games at Honesdale on Friday, March 15, and will enter a boy in the foul-shooting contest the same night.

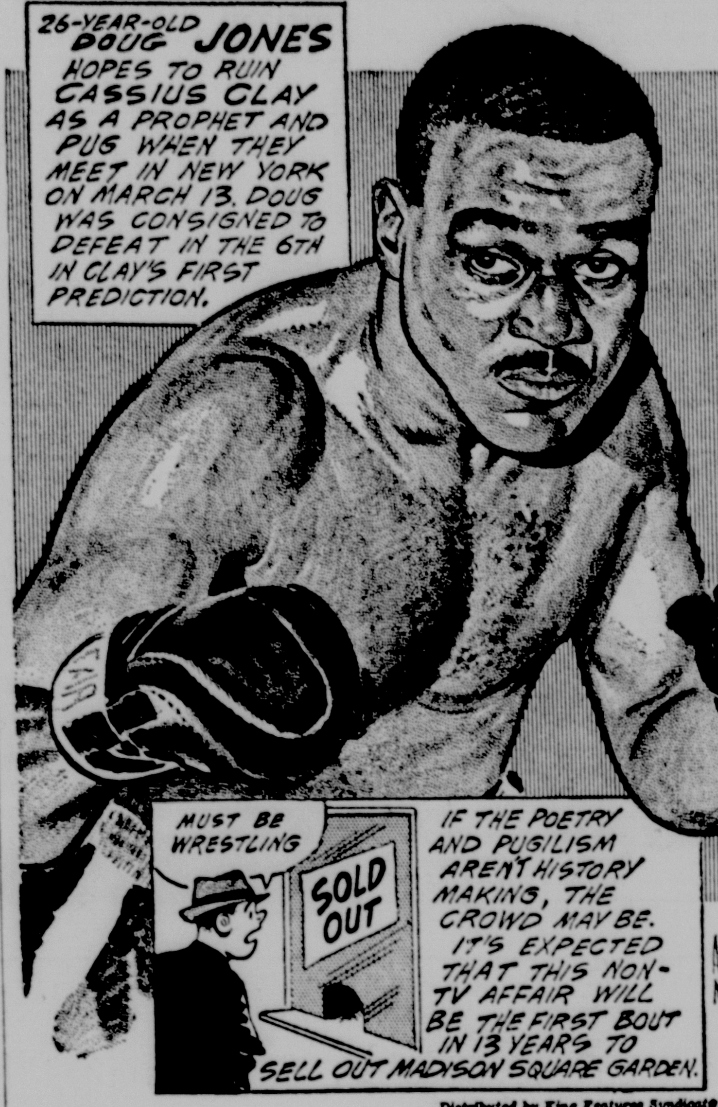

Sponsored by the Wayne County Council of Student Councils, the all-star scholastic games will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a jayvee game in which North Pocono, Southern Wayne and Honesdale, coached by John Hamor, of Delaware Valley, will play a team of jayvee all-stars from Delaware Valley, Honesdale and Lake Ariel, coached by Bob Rhoads of Delaware Valley.

On Proposed Strike Zone Expansion

PIAA To 'Wait And See'

HARRISBURG (AP)—Officials of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association are adopting a "wait-and-see" policy toward major league baseball's expanded strike zone.

"We don't want to change it now, then have to go back to the old zone next season if it doesn't work out in the majors," Ted Wagner, assistant executive director of the PIAA, said Monday. Wagner explained that the PIAA Rules Committee has not taken the new strike zone under consideration yet, since rules covering the 1963 season were adopted last spring.

The new strike zone established by the major leagues for the 1963 season covers an area from the top of the shoulders to just below the knee caps.

Schoolboy hurlers in Pennsylv-vania, however, will continue to use the zone between the armpits to just above the knees.

"Safety has always been a factor when a new rule is considered," Wagner explained. "we feel now it might be dangerous to expand the zone for high school baseball since high school pitchers don't always have the control of a major leaguer."

He also maintained that plate umpires in the PIAA would have to be taken into consideration before changing the rule.

"Some of our finest officials have been working with the present zone for a long time," he said. "It would take them some time to get used to any change."

Actually, the PIAA stand is the same as that of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations which regulates scholastic sports in the United States.

High school baseball throughout the country is expected to keep the old strike zone, at least until 1964, Wagner said.

The PIAA's decision will affect some 650 schools which take part in baseball.

The expanded zone already has been adopted by the minor leagues and is carrying through sandlot, Junior Legion and Teener ball.

Other leagues, however, like Little League, are retaining the old zone, until the experiment proves itself in the majors.

Wagner said he has received little comment from coaches in the state over the proposed strike zone.

But the comment he did receive leaned heavily toward expanding the strike zone.

Canada Trounces U. S. In Hockey

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Canada's unbeaten hockey team trounced the winless U.S. sextet 10-4 Monday night in the World Ice Hockey Championships.

It was the third straight victory for the Canadians and the third successive defeat for the Yanks. The Canadians went into the first place with Sweden's defending champions and Czechoslovakia.

St. Vincent's Quits Football

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—St. Vincent College is abandoning intercollegiate football, effective this year.

The Rev. Maximilian Duman, president of the Roman Catholic school, announced the action. He blamed costs of fielding a team, decreasing attendance and scheduling difficulties. St. Vincent began intercollegiate football in 1923, failed to field teams only in the World War II years 1942-46. Overall, the school's record is 146-126-24.

Jones Camp Confident

Daniels Rubs Clay

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay calls himself "The Greatest" but he's far from that in Billy Daniels' estimation.

Daniels' size-up of the unbeaten Louisville Lip encouraged the Jones' camp but had little effect on the odds. Clay was held as a 13-5 or 3-1 favorite, depending on where a better shopped in town, for the absolutely sold out 10-round in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

Daniels, a gangling heavyweight from Brooklyn, lost on cuts to Clay in the seventh round last May 19 and was outpointed by Cleveland Williams in a bruising battle last Saturday night.

Comparisons

Asked to compare Clay and Williams, Daniels said Monday: "There's no comparison. Williams hits much harder. I'd fight Clay every night in the week. But that Williams, man, he's a load of dynamite."

Clay had predicted Daniels would "fall in five." Daniels never hit the canvas once. Further he rocked Cassius twice with long rights to the head.

According to the Ring ratings, Clay is ranked second among the heavyweight contenders, Jones third, Williams sixth and Daniels eighth. The WBA has Clay second, Williams fourth, Jones fifth, and Daniels sixth.

Brash Cassius first predicted

Jones would "fall in six." Sunday night he chopped it to four.

After hearing Daniels, Jones' manager, Alex Koskowitz, said: "Doug is going in there confident he can win. Hearing this from Daniels is no surprise. We have our own ideas on Clay. We know he has weak spots and Doug is going to work on them."

Jones and Clay finished their training Monday. Jones was expected to go into seclusion in the remaining time before the biggest and richest fight of his career. Cassius the Confident will rest his fists but not his tongue even though he's already made good his boast of selling out the Garden.

The only good tickets left for sale were held by the speculators. Harry Markison, managing director of boxing for the Garden, said the arena has been sold out of its 18,000 tickets for about $100,000.

Additions
In addition to the gate sale, the closed circuit television to 40 locations in 37 cities was expected by the promoters to gross close to $500,000. This will add between $200,000 and $250,000 to the pot in which the fighters share. Cassius gets 30 per cent and Jones 25 per cent of all receipts.

New York will be blacked out of the closed circuit telecast.

The big city also was blacked out of television when the Garden had its last sellout. That was six years ago when Gene Fullmer defrosted middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson before 18,134 customers who paid $194.645.

Angels Set For Improved Season

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—For a club that is only two years old, the Los Angeles Angels, astonishingly, are practically a set team.

Manager Bill Rigney can resume play this year with just about the same personnel he had with his third-place finishers in 1962—a year for the Angels that still intrigues all baseball, and earned Rigney manager of the year honors in the American League.

And don't dare ask Rigney if the club can do as well this season.

He firmly believes the 1963 Angels have the potential to do not only as well, but better.

In 1962, Rigney's winningest pitcher, Dean Chance, won 14 games, which was good, but not spectacular. The Angels' other first-line right-hander, Ken McBride, won 11.

These two brilliant prospects can do better, and no one would be too surprised if they hit the magic 20-game level.

Expect Better

Certainly McBride can expect a better win-loss record. A cracked rib sidelined him for the final two months of the 1962 season.

Chance, just half-joking, declares: "Why stop at 20? I think I'll win 30, just for the heck of it."

The Angels have something else important going for them this season: right-hand hitting power, which was sadly lacking in 1962.

Outfielder Ken Hunt, who drove in 84 runs in the Angels' maiden year of 1961, went out of action with a severe shoulder injury last year after only 13 games.

And George Thomas, a big asset that first season, was called to military duty and missed most of the 1962 campaign.

The Angels' batting strength last season was supplied by Leon Wagner, Lee Thomas, Albie Pearson and catcher Bob Rodgers.

All but Rodgers were strictly left-hand hitters. Rodgers is a switch hitter, but you'd have to say he's really a left-hand batter. From that stance he had a .285 average last year. From the right it was .204.

Bo Belinsky is rated among the pitching starters, along with Don Lee and Eli Grba.

And the jury is still out on three veterans anxious to catch on with the Angels—Bob Turley from the Yankees; "Sad Sam" Jones, who toiled but little with Detroit last year, and Art Fowler, whose career almost ended when he was hit in the eye by a batted ball.

Jones is in camp as a free agent and Turley on a look-see basis. Both are candidates for starting roles, while Fowler is again aiming at duties in the bullpen.

Of the three, at this writing Flower seems to have the best chance to remain. The set relief staff includes Tom Morgan, Dan Osninski, Ryme Duren and others.

The Rigney pitching staff had an earned run average of 3.69 last year, just a fraction behind the leading Baltimore Orioles.

Rigney's infield was and is sound, with Lee Thomas at first, Billy Moran at second, Jim Fregosi or Joe Koppe at short and Felix Turner at third.

This seems to be the nucleus of the 1963 Angels. Other candidates will be heard from in the coming few weeks.

Lions Plan Sports As Top Feature

STROUDSBURG Lions Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. today in the Penn-Stroud Hotel with a special program of sports planned following the dinner.

New results will be posted in the membership drive. Last week, Harold N. Miller's team was leading with Elwood Grant's team second.

It was recently announced that the annual St. Patrick's Day party of the club will be cancelled.

Lawson Wins League Title In YMCA Basketball Play

LAWSON'S, winner of the YMCA basketball league, extended its record to 14-0 Thursday by whipping Eisenhart's, 106-65.

Five players on the Lawson team scored in double figures.

In another Y game Thursday, Tobyhanna downed Jack's Market by an 81-79 tally.

In the Lawson game, Bill Heinshin had 20 points, Doug Shook had 19, Tom James had 19, Maloriello had 17, and Newell had 12.

Hutchinson for Eisenhart's scored half that team's points by dropping in 32 during the tilt.

Lopardo and LaBar did the rest of the damage, each scoring 14 points for the losers.

Lawson's overwhelmed Eisenhart's in every frame.

Lem Isom had 26 points for the losers in the Jack's-Tobyhanna contest.

Gene Armbruch had 16 and Robertson 15 for Jack's, while John Watson, with 21, Bill Lamington, with 19, and Megginson with 12 points were the double figure scorers for the victors.

Jack's led by seven at the half, but a strong third Tobyhanna period provided the winning margin.

Bearcats Chosen Top Team In AP Final Cage Polling

The defensive-minded Cincinnati Bearcats made every post a winning one and emerged Tuesday as the nation's No. 1 college basketball team in The Associated Press final poll.

Just as they had done in the pre-season voting and in the 15 weeks that followed, Coach Ed Jucker's slick ball-handlers made a runaway of the decisive ballot.

They drew 35 of the 43 No. 1 votes from a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters and rolled up 420 points compared with 381 for second-place Duke. Duke got seven first place votes and Providence, which failed to place in the top ten, the other one.

Points are figured on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Under this system, the final top ten included: 1, Cincinnati; 2, Duke; 3, Loyola of Chicago; 4, Arizona State; 5, Wichita; 6, Mississippi State; 7, Ohio State; 8, Illinois; 9, New York University; 10, Colorado.

All but two of these teams—

Wichita and Ohio State being the exceptions—are involved in the NCAA's national tournament, which has its climax at Louisville March 23.

Cincinnati, with a 23-1 season's record and the best defensive average in the country, is favored to win its third straight tournament title, which would be an unprecedented feat.

Ohio State won The Associated Press poll in 1961 and 1962 only to bow in the tournament, won each time by the Bearcats.

"We're not in the least superstitious," said Jucker. "We have a good team and we think we can win."

Cincinnati's methodical, precision-type play is reflected in the team statistics, which show the Bearcats with the best defensive average, 51.9 points yielded a game, and the fewest personal fouls committed, an average of only 13.4 per contest.

The Bearcats had a streak of 37 straight victories before being stopped by Wichita 65-61 on Feb. 16. They had beaten Wichita previously.

Loyola, averaging 93.9 points, is the nation's top scoring unit. Duke leads in field goal percentage with a .517 mark.

New York U. and Colorado were newcomers to the final poll, squeezing out Stanford and Providence.

Loyola made the best advance—from fifth to third — and Ohio State, beaten by Indiana 87-85 in the season finale, had the biggest drop—from third to seventh.

Schuck Is Held For Grand Jury

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A patient at Torrance State Hospital was ordered held yesterday for grand jury action on a charge of murder in the shooting of his 9-year-old son.

Richard H. Schuck, 36, of Greensburg pleaded innocent at a hearing before a justice of the peace.

State police said Schuck picked up the boy at Mrs. Schuck's home in New Stanton, bought a rifle in Greensburg, and took a taxi to nearby Lincoln Heights where he shot the boy.

The Daily Investor

Protection Rule

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. Almost five months ago I put in an order with my broker to buy 100 shares of a well-known stock, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, at $15 a share. At that time the stock was trading around $16.50 a share. It finally dropped to $15 and then to 14% ($14.875) about a month ago. But my buy order was not filled.

I asked the broker why. He said that the stock had "gone ex-dividend 25 cents" and that it would have had to trade at 14% for my order to be filled. This sounds mighty suspicious to me. Is this some rule of the New York Stock Exchange?

A. Yes, it is a rule of the New York Stock Exchange. And, despite your suspicions, it's a rule aimed at protecting the investing public.

It's clear that you put in an "open order, good till canceled" at 15—meaning that you were willing to buy 100 shares of that stock at any time it dropped to $15 a share. Your brokerage house then sent that order to its member on the trading floor of the New York Stock Exchange. That floor broker gave the order to the specialist who "makes the market" in that stock on the exchange. The specialist wrote the order down in his book.

If the market price of the stock had dropped to 15, before the stock went ex-dividend, your order would have been filled—after all other orders to buy at 15 placed before yours were filled. Naturally, fixed-price orders such as these are filled in the chronological order in which they arrived.

On the date that a stock goes ex-dividend, the value of the dividend is automatically deducted from the market price of the stock. That is because anyone who buys the stock in a "regular way transaction" (the way most trades are handled) on or after the ex-dividend date does not receive the dividend.

Also, on the ex-dividend date, the specialist reduces the price of orders such as you placed by the amount of the ex-dividend reduction.

In this case the stock went ex-dividend 25 cents a share. So, your buy order price was reduced from 15 to 14.875.

As a result of this, you did not pay a somewhat higher price for the stock after its market value had been automatically reduced by the ex-dividend procedure. Don't overlook the fact that, if your order had been filled on the ex-dividend date, you would not have received the dividend.

Q. I have learned, from reading your column, that a company's preferred stock has certain "preferences" over the same company's common stock—such as a fixed dividend rate which normally must be paid before any dividends are paid on the common stock and that preferred stock usually is entitled to payment before common stock, in case the company is liquidated.

You have also written that those provisions do "vary a great deal" from one company to another. How can I learn those provisions? Are they printed on each preferred stock certificate?

A. Normally, the specific provisions are printed on the preferred stock certificate. But there might be some cases in which they are not. In any case, they are always printed in the company's charter.

The easy and obvious way to learn the provisions of individual preferred stocks is through your broker. Any broker worth his salt has statistical and stock manuals in his office. Those manuals provide all that information. You'll also find those manuals in some public libraries.

Lions Put 'Conquerors' In Operation

THE LIONS CLUB of the Stroudsburgs announces the organization of a new club to be known as The Conquerors.

To be eligible for this club, it is required the entrant be partially or completely blind and interested in helping those afflicted with a similar handicap.

The club will meet once weekly at various convenient first-floor locations.

The first meeting will be held tonight at 6 o'clock at the office of Dr. Carl C. Fegley, 9 No. Sixth St., Stroudsburg.

The members of the club and any new persons interested, will be picked up by members of the Lions Club and brought to and from the meeting.

If you wish any further details please call Mrs. Marian Edson or Dr. Fegley.

SP/4 Gogolski Takes Part In Exercise

ARMY Specialist Four Cyril A. Gogolski, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gogolski, 143 Seventh St., Blakeslee, recently took part in Exercise WINTERSNAP II, a cold weather field training maneuver in Korea, with other members of the 1st Cavalry Division.

The exercise was designed to test and improve combat effectiveness of U.S. forces helping defend the Republic of South Korea.

Specialist Gogolski is assigned as a clerk in Company E of the 5th Cavalry's 1st Battle Group.

He entered the Army in July 1960, completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J., and was stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., before arriving overseas last May.

Gogolski is a 1960 graduate of Polk Twp. High School.

Tobyhanna Grad In Eta Kappa Nu

TWO Northampton County residents have been named members of Eta Kappa Nu, national honorary electrical engineering society at Lafayette College.

They are Robert R. Rodite of Easton and Ernest P. Moyer of Bath.

Eta Kappa Nu recognizes students enrolled in electrical engineering who have attained high academic standing.

Rodite is a junior and a member of the college band, ROTC Band, and Mu Upsilon Sigma, an honorary music society.

He is a 1960 graduate of Wilson High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Rodite, Brown's Terrace, Easton.

Moyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Moyer, Nazareth RD 3. He lives at RD 2 in Bath with his wife, the former Margaret Haytman, of Palmerston, and their three daughters: Deborah, six; Carolyn, four, and Patricia, three.

A 1948 graduate of Tobyhanna Township High School, Pocono Pines, he is a veteran of the Air Force.

Union Seeks New Contract Clause

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Transport Workers Union Friday ordered its maintenance workers on the Pennsylvania Railroad to refuse to work overtime, effective yesterday, in protest of the railroad's plans to lay off 108 workers in the Philadelphia region.

Matthew Guinan, TWU international secretary-treasurer, announced the union action at a meeting of the presidents of 46 TWU locals on the PRR system.

Guinan said the TWU is not contemplating calling a strike on the issue of the layoffs.

The TWU presidents also sent a telegram to George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, urging the union to take the lead in the dispute over the railroad's plans to change work rules and lay off operating employees.

Meany was urged to lead the railroad brotherhoods in setting an immediate strike date against the nation's railroads.

Soviet Elections Turn 'Em Out

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet election officials announced yesterday that 99.4 per cent of the electorate voted last Sunday in the election for parliament of the Russian Federation.

Of these, 99.59 per cent voted for the Communist-approved single slate of candidates, the Central Electoral Commission announced. It also said that 32.8 per cent of those elected were not Communist party members.

Results were much the same in eight other republics that held elections.

Local Paint Dealers Offer Many Suggestions For Using Paints

Do's And Don'ts Of Using Color

THE color you paint a room can "make or break" the furnishings. It's important to know which colors are best to use where so that you can spotlight the beautiful and hide the unattractive. Ten dollars worth of quality paint will redo the average size room; take full advantage of this beautiful bargain by putting color to work.

The Do's

DO paint a small room a light color to make it look larger.
DO use deep colors in hangar-like rooms to give warmth and intimacy.
DO accentuate the blues, blue-greens and blue-grays in rooms with southern exposures for a cooling effect.

DO stress the warm reds, yellows, golds and oranges in rooms with northern exposures.

DO mix both warm and cool colors in each room.

DO paint your ceilings in color — it adds so much to the room. If you want to make the ceiling seem higher, paint it a much lighter color than the walls. To lower a very high ceiling, paint it a deeper color than the walls.

DO study color samples and paint chips in both daylight and artificial light. Artificial light often changes the appearance of a color.

DO use "complexion happy" colors in the bathroom for more complimentary and healthy looking reflections in your mirrors. Pinks, peaches, rose and pinky-lilac are the kindest. Gold and pure green are also good, but avoid yellowy greens which can make one look ill.

DO mix both light and dark hues in each room.

DO buy only quality paints to be sure of achieving superior finishes which are long-lasting and non-fading, as well as easy to apply.

The Don'ts

DON'T use colors in equal proportion in any one room. If you're stressing a light warm color — yellow, for example — your accent splashes include cooler and deeper hues. For instance, to offset the yellow, you might select a rich turquoise, bright coral and dark olive. Use the reverse procedure when you're painting walls a deep cool color.

DON'T use very bright colors on large areas. You'll detract from your furnishings.

DON'T select colors just because they're the current rage or because they are neutral and "will go with everything." Choose the most flattering colors for the size of the room and the type of furnishings in it. It's far more practical to get a new slipcover for your chair to go with the new walls, than to paint the walls a dull hue that doesn't clash with the chair in question, nor complement anything else in the room.

DON'T overdo patterns in a room. Too many patterns or too "busy" designs give a cluttered look, particularly in smaller rooms.

DON'T be afraid to paint the furniture you've had for years just because it's a sentimental keepsake or you think painting it will "harm" it in some way. Unless it's an antique, all your older pieces should be beautifully painted or enameled to give them new beauty and new distinction. You should see what happens to a dark mahogany dining set when it's coated with shining white enamel! Try it.

DON'T use gloss paints on ceilings or walls, except in the kitchen and bath. These two rooms need surfaces which are easily scrubbed and more resistant to moisture. Flat paints are the better choice for walls and ceilings because they reflect light evenly, without glare.

DON'T forget that the color will look darker on your wall than it looks on the color chip. Color always looks "more so" on large areas than small areas.

DON'T overemphasize the warm yellows, oranges and reds in the kitchen without relieving the effect with a splash of coolness... blues, blue-greens and blue-grays. The cool blues are nice to have around the kitchen when you're roasting and toasting.

LARGER ROOM

YOU can make your room look larger by painting the baseboard the same color as your wall-to-wall carpeting, according to the National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association. To protect the carpet use a curved metal shield known as a painter's time saver or use the cardboard which laundries insert in men's shirts. You'll find it easier to apply the paint with a roller than with a brush, and there are rollers with guards which will prevent paint from getting on the rug. Incidentally, protect the wall above the baseboard the same way.

Bathroom Fixtures With Appeal

By Andy Lang

QUESTION: I want to put down a tongue-and-groove hardwood floor over a subfloor. Can you give me some advice?

ANSWER: We hesitate to recommend that you tackle a project of this sort unless you have had some previous experience with a similar installation or, at the very least, with some kind of wood-working.

However, on the assumption that you have reason to believe you can handle the job, the following may help. Be sure all loose boards in the subfloor are nailed down securely. Cover the floor with strips of building paper, running them lengthwise; that is, in the same direction in which the hardwood floor will be laid. Place the first strip parallel to the wall but with a space of one-quarter to one-half an inch. The groove of the board should face the wall.

The first board is nailed through the top of the board into the subfloor, with the nails at intervals of 10 inches or so. The same board is then nailed into the floor underneath the tongue. The nailing is done at a 45-degree angle until it is almost flush with the wood, after which a nailset is used to drive it the rest of the way. Each succeeding board is placed so that its groove fits over the tongue of the preceding strip. Keep a piece of scrap flooring handy. When you run into a stubborn fitting, place the groove of the scrap over the tongue of the board about to be nailed. Hammer the sides of the scrap, thus driving the flooring together without damaging the wood. The last board, on the other side of the room, may have to be cut to fit in place, but whether it is or not, it will have to be face-nailed, just as the first one was.

(Questions of general interest will be answered in this column. Individual correspondence can not be undertaken.)

EVEN if you prefer to use a brush to coat your walls with the new, exciting 1963 paint colors, you'll find that a roller will make it easier to paint certain surfaces. Radiator grills are a case in point: the perforated metal surfaces makes smooth brushing difficult, but a roller will do the job in a jiffy, says the National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association.

Group Cites Advantages Of Private Water System

A PRIVATE water system is used where a municipal or central water supply service is not available or to provide additional water and pressure where a central system does not meet the needs of a home owner.

A private water system consists of a well or other water source, an electric pump, and a pressure or storage tank.

There are certain advantages of a private water system over water service from a central source. These advantages are cited by the Water Systems Council as follows:

1. Properly sized and located, private wells can provide an abundant and dependable year-round source for clean, cold water.

2. A private water supply eliminates the use restrictions during extended dry periods.

3. Private water systems can cost considerably less over a period of years than comparable city water service.

4. The owner's investment in a private water system can be tailored to match the needs of the home or farm.

5. A properly selected private water system maintains capacity and pressure even during times of peak water usage.

Persons who are planning to build a house beyond the city water mains are advised to discuss their plans with an experienced water system dealer who will be glad to recommend the system best suited to the capacity of the well and the water requirements of the family.

WHAT'S new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A porcelain enamel steel door and frame for use in houses and apartments.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That porcelain enamel has been used in the building industry for years, but that this is the first time it has been used for doors. That the door is fire-resistant, corrosion-resistant and comes in many sizes, styles, colors, designs and types. That it offers unlimited flexibility in the use of hardware.

THE PRODUCT — A track-mounted, sliding steel service door for garages.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That the new door will not bang against your car, hit the overhead garage door's track when it is opened nor hamper passage into or out of cramped garage areas. That it will not stick or warp or require maintenance. That it has an exclusive grip-handle lock and see-through windows.

THE PRODUCT — A new type of exterior plywood designed for use where a nonskid surface is important.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this plywood can be used on boat docks, boat decks, outside porches or wherever a firm footing is mandatory. That its nonskid surface has a small, waffle pattern formed into a plastic-impregnated overlay on exterior plywood or on hardboard laminated to plywood. That it can be nailed, glued, stapled or otherwise used the same as regular plywood.

THE PRODUCT — A push-pull measuring tape with a thumb lock which keeps the extended blade from creeping back into the case.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this steel tape, when locked into position, facilitates the marking down of measurements and, when unlocked, retracts smoothly and automatically. That the bright yellow blade and black foot-and-inch markings make it easier to read and that its polyester film insures durability. That it has a rugged clip on the case so that it can be clipped to a belt, pocket, work apron or clip board.

THE PRODUCT — A radiant electric heating system which uses panels of enameled steel.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That these thermopanel panels reach peak efficiency in 72 seconds and emit infra red rays longer than those of any other system. That the unit consists of a specially developed steel alloy to which decorated-colored enamel is fused to one side and the heating element to the reverse side.

LOWER WITH COLOR
THERE are two ways to "lower" an overly high ceiling visually with paint color, says the National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association. The first is to paint the ceiling a darker color than walls. The second is to extend the ceiling color down the side walls in a band of whatever width looks attractive.

-Don't Paint a glossy surface until you CLEAN and DULL it
Saturate a rag with Wil-Bond and rub down the surface before repainting. Takes off all wax, grease and grime and dulls the surface. No sanding needed. The new finish goes on smoothly and adheres perfectly.
